Land reform committee condemns alleged land grab.

Groups of people arrive in Nellmapius, Pretoria to demandthey be given free land to build their own houses

PARLIAMENT - A media statement from The Portfolio Committee on Rural Development and Land Reform has condemned the attempted land grabs in Nellmapius, east of Pretoria.

A standoff in Nellmapius occurred when municipal land was illegally occupied, to establish a "Malemaville" village there. In the statement, Committee Chairperson, Phumzile Ngwenya-Mabila, said, "Illegal occupation of land belonging to someone else is unconstitutional and regrettable in South Africa. The Committee views the actions in a serious light.

"It is reckless for anyone to invade another persons' property and claim expropriation; there has to be legal reasoning and public interest in order for one to expropriate."Ngwenya-Mabila reiterated the Committee's faith in government's land distribution programmes and asked South Africans to be patient in this regard.

She said, "The Committee encourages people to use the legally available platforms and processes to acquire land, be it for human settlements or agricultural purposes. Our country cannot self-destruct now on such a critical issue as land."
